

Vincent T. Covello

Dr. Vincent T. Covello is a nationally and internationally recognized expert in risk communications: the art and science of communicating effectively in high concern/low trust situations. He is currently serving as Director of the Center for Risk Communication, a non-profit research institute located in New York City.

Over the past twenty-five years, Dr. Covello has held numerous positions in academia and government, including Associate Professor of Environmental Sciences and Clinical Medicine at Columbia University. Prior to his joining the faculty at Columbia, Dr. Covello was a senior scientist at the White House Council on Environmental Quality in Washington, D.C., a study director at the National Research Council/National Academy of Sciences in Washington, D.C., Director of the Risk Assessment Program at the National Science Foundation and a professor at Brown University.

Dr. Covello received his doctorate from Columbia University and his BA with honors and MA from Cambridge University in England. He is on the editorial board of several journals and is the Past President of the Society for Risk Analysis, a professional association with over 2,500 members.

Dr. Covello has authored or edited over 25 books and over 74 published articles on risk assessment, management and communication.